

Just a Little of This & That By W. E. W.

He Had An Idea

Many years ago a young man came to Upland from a southern state and about all he had was an idea. He purchased a small grocery store and opened for business here and for several months conducted a cash and carry grocery business in the same building now occupied by Hayman & Rogers.

But this young man had bigger things in view than he believed could be developed in Upland, and whether he adopted the idea from eating at a cafeteria in Los Angeles he has never stated, but he evidently believed that people wanted to pick out their own purchases in a grocery store and carry them to their homes at a lower price than they could purchase where solicitors, clerks, delivery boys, bookkeepers, hard-boiled collectors, etc., were employed in order to supply people with what they wanted to eat.

This young man was G. E. Adams, who located in Bakersfield, and when he announced the fact that he was going to enter the business circles in that city he wasn't extended a royal welcome by anyone, but today he has a host of friends among the buyers of things to eat. He has so many friends and patrons today in that town that he conducts three grocery stores in different parts of that city and has established his business firmly in the hearts of the buying public.

When this young man was in Upland he believed in advertising, and his faith in advertising is still strong, as evidenced by the fact that in the Bakersfield Californian of February 7th, a four-page section was devoted entirely to getting before the readers of that newspaper what the Adams Packing Company had to offer to patrons.

Among the vast majority of people it is the popular idea that a newspaper should provide a vast amount of space advertising the town and county, but G. E. Adams evidently believes that each and every merchant should assist in his advertising by not only setting forth his own particular wares, but by devoting considerable space to the town and county in which that business is located.

Mr. Adams' advertising space is specially designed and a generous amount is devoted to Bakersfield and Kern County, setting forth many of the advantages and excellent business conditions there. Upland is indeed proud of many of its young men who have gone out and made a success in the business world, and Mr. Adams is one of those young men.

He's One Year Older

Several famous people were born in February. There was Abraham Lincoln, who was born on the twelfth, and then there was George Washington, who first saw the light of day on the 22nd of the month. Mac the Medicine Man states that the only difference between the observance of his birthday, which is February 20th, and the observance of the birthday of Lincoln and Washington, is that on his birthday the banks stay open.

GLENDALE FIRM BUYS ONTARIO SHOE STORE

The shoe store in Ontario established five years ago by Crittenden and Mackreth has just been sold to Brotherton Brothers of Glendale, who have taken immediate possession and have a stock closing sale on this week.

The new owners have two shoe stores in Glendale, and plan to make the Ontario place of business just as successful. Messrs. Crittenden and Mackreth will both leave Ontario and have associated themselves with the Robertson Shoe Co. of Minneapolis.

UPLAND LIONS AT CORONA LAST NITE

Twenty-one Lions and their wives attended a meeting of the Corona Lions Thursday evening, motoring over to a seven o'clock dinner, for which covers were marked for 88 guests.

The menu, which is given below, was not only a work of art from a culinary and decorative standpoint, but also from a zoological one, those responsible evidently being well acquainted with Roosevelt's travels in Africa.

The place cards were in the shape of real roaring lions, and the tables very attractive in their floral decorations.

On the program which was given during the evening were J. Meniffee of Corona, who gave an interesting talk; several songs by Dave Jones, and some clever readings by Frank Wood, both of Corona. Dr. Bert Foster of the Upland Den, gave an excellent speech and the Grand March was led by the Zazz Orchestra, recruited from the many fine musicians in the Upland Den.

Dancing was enjoyed for the rest of the evening.

BUYS BUSINESS ACQUIRES A WIFE

R. S. Bussey, a former resident and business man of Upland, has returned again to the city and started in business here. He purchased from L. Woodruff the grocery store on East Twelfth Street, which the latter bought from Thomas W. Harris in the fall, and takes immediate possession. Mr. Woodruff will remain with Mr. Bussey for the rest of the month, and states that he has no intention of leaving Upland, but will probably invest again in some line of business.

Beside acquiring a store, Mr. Bussey also has acquired a wife, the wedding taking place on Saturday at the Presbyterian parsonage. Mrs. Bussey was formerly Mrs. Dora Vandriber of Belmont, Georgia, and has been visiting her sister in Ontario previous to her marriage. Mr. and Mrs. George T. Redmon were present at the wedding and Dr. R. C. Stone of the First Presbyterian Church, officiated.

Los Angeles Men Form Company to Develop Marble Quarry and to Establish Lime and Crushed Rock Plant Between Day and Deer Canyons North of Alta Loma. Road One and Half Miles Long to Be Built From Goff Ranch.

With in a few weeks fifty men will be employed quarrying for marble between Day Canyon and Deer Canyon north of Alta Loma, Los Angeles capitalists having entered into partnership with C. L. Ramirez to establish an immense quarry to bring out of Mother Earth the deposits of marble said to rank in quality with the finest marble in Mexico.

A lime and crushed rock plant is also to be established that all broken pieces may be used. Ranger W. A. Shay has just issued a permit to the newly formed company to build a road one and a half miles in length from the Goff Ranch above Alta Loma to the new plant and as soon as the road is complete machinery will be hauled in and the new plant established.

In 1908 C. L. Ramirez located this bed of marble and not having capital was unable to finance his claim. Within the past few months he has interested several men in the project and development of the claim is to proceed. Men well versed in marble deposits say that the quality is excellent and they look for great results and the development of a big business, for the demand for high grade marble greatly exceeds the supply at this time.

CLUBWOMEN HEAR A FINE ADDRESS

Telling of his wonderful experience at the formal opening of King Tutankhamen's tomb in the Valley of the Kings in Egypt by Mr. Brested made one of the most interesting programs given by the Women's Club this year.

The wonderfully carved beds covered with sheet gold, alabaster vases, beautiful boxes filled with precious stones and jewelry, the wheels, poles, and bodies of chariots, all in gold, a bouquet of flowers even, and food in containers for King Tutankhamen.

Mr. Brested, whose father Professor James H. Brested, was a noted American Egyptologist, was very fortunate to be in Cairo with his father at the time Howard Carter, working under the concession made to Lord Carnarvon made his discovery. Prof. Brested was an authority on Egyptology and has written about Egyptian history, so was the logical one to help at this delicate task of removing the articles from the tomb.

Through the courtesy of A. M. Fielding, the lecture was given in the Colonial Theatre. The lecture was illustrated with slides, which added much to the interest of the subject.

SAN ANTONIO NURSES ENJOY CHAFFEY SHOW

Nurses on the San Antonio Community Hospital staff made up a delightful party on Saturday evening and attended the minstrel show at Chaffey auditorium put on by some of the children from the Los Angeles Orthopedic Hospital. The party was made possible through the courtesy of one of Ontario's business men.

MANY WITNESS THE ART EXHIBIT AT UPLAND HOTEL

One hundred and fifty people attended the Art Exhibit held on Tuesday afternoon and evening at the club room in the Upland Hotel, when a display of wonderful paintings, curios and Mexican pottery was shown through the courtesy of many local people, and the energy and enthusiasm of a committee of representative women of the Upland Woman's Club and the Business and Professional Woman's Club.

The most striking object to meet the eye on entering the room was the full-length portrait of Frederick Paulding, the Shakespearean actor, as Romeo in the tomb of Juliet. This is the work of Mrs. W. J. McCloskey, Sr., an artist of renown, whose paintings have been exhibited in the Paris salons as well as in this country. Her career as an artist was cut short some fifteen years ago by her untimely death. Other paintings and water colors by her were also interesting and beautiful.

Some thirty portraits by W. J. McCloskey, Sr., were shown and the excellence and naturalness of the flesh tints and the wonderful portrayal of fabrics from gingham to laces, velvets, satins and broadcloth, called forth much favorable comment.

Another interesting feature of the exhibit was the collection of eight or ten oils by Miss Ruth Stroth of Ontario, lent to the committee by her uncle, Leonard Frankish. Miss Stroth is only 18 years of age and has had no special instruction in this line of art, yet those who viewed her work felt sure that she has unusual talent that if developed will lead to a bright future.

One of the most valuable exhibits on view was the charcoal sketch of the English artist, Will Rothenstein, by our great American portrait painter, John Sargent. As Sargent seldom did anything except in oils, this sketch is undoubtedly one of a very few that are in existence.

The tables devoted to art objects from Mexico were most colorful and artistic and were presided over by Mrs. Julia Peters, Miss Newby and Miss Eleanor Leahy, who explained the significance of each article. Other tables carried exhibits of Roycroft hand-made books and copper articles and of Frank King's early work when he was developing in to a cartoonist and employed on a Chicago paper.

The committee wish to express their appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McCloskey, Jr., for loaning the paintings, sketches and draperies that made this exhibit possible; to Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Avery of the Upland Hotel, who so kindly allowed the use of the rooms for this purpose, and to Mrs. W. R. Farmer, who rendered appropriate music during the evening.

Among those who contributed paintings and art objects not already mentioned were H. F. Bradburne and Miss Newby of Ontario, Miss Lillian Williams, Mrs. M. E. Titus, Mrs. W. R. Farmer, Miss Ethel Leeke, Mrs. R. N. Leahy and Mrs. G. L. Winter.

Owing to repeated requests, the exhibit will remain open Sunday afternoon in order to give those who cannot come at other times a chance to view the works of art.

HOSPITAL AUXILIARY MEETS MONDAY

The next meeting of the San Antonio Community Hospital Auxiliary will take place Monday afternoon at three o'clock in the library of the Hospital. All who are interested in the Community Hospital, or who wish to learn more of the aims and objects of the Auxiliary are cordially invited to be present. Each woman's organization is specially requested to have a representative at this meeting; either the president or some member appointed by her to represent the Club. It is hoped by Mrs. E. C. Harwood, president of the Auxiliary, to make this organization the most democratic and the most representative of any in the community; where women of all ages, of all degrees and interests, may come together on common ground and for a common interest; and in getting acquainted and working together it is hoped a stronger spirit of co-operation and tolerance may be fostered and many new friendships formed.

ART EXHIBIT WILL BE OPEN SUNDAY

So many requests have reached the committee in charge of the exhibit of paintings and art objects in the club rooms of the Upland Hotel, to continue same for a few days in order to give more people an opportunity to view it, they have decided to open it to the public next Sunday afternoon from 2 to 6. Children and young people are specially invited to come in and look around and those in charge will be glad to explain about the pictures and art objects.

RED CROSS HOLDS MONTHLY MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of Upland Chapter American Red Cross was held at the library on Thursday morning, with Mrs. Temple in the chair. Mrs. O. K. Granger and Mrs. R. C. Norton were appointed to co-operate with Mrs. E. S. Bishop of Cucamonga in the plans for making Cucamonga Chapter a branch of Upland Chapter A. R. C. as soon as the dispensation came from headquarters.

Mrs. Lottie Fuller, city nurse, reported 31 nursing visits made, 28 investigating visits, 17 welfare visits and 11 miscellaneous, during the month of January. At the Baby Clinic, 62 visits were made by babies at the four afternoons it was open, with both Dr. Mary Craig Williamson and Mrs. Fuller in attendance. Beside the mothers attending, eleven visitors called. Eight pieces of clothing were given away and jellies and canned fruit.

A very appreciative letter was received from Grace Graham, the director volunteer service, Pacific Division, A.R.C., in regard to the bed jackets made by the women of Upland for U. S. Veterans' Hospital. About two dozen were sent immediately after Christmas and Miss Graham said more were needed as well as more "beanies," a number of which were sent last year.

Mrs. H. W. Flowers was appointed as alternate for the president to represent the Red Cross Chapter on the Memorial Hospital Auxiliary Board.

DRUG BUSINESS GROWTH IS BIG

As the Rexall Co-operative Idea spread and more Rexall stores came into the fold, the business of the United Drug Company grew by leaps and bounds. Factory sites were bought and great factories were built to take care of the constantly increasing demands for merchandise and medicines. The absorption of large paper mills, candy factories, warehouses and the establishment of distributing branches forced the company to re-finance itself in a manner and on a scale that would permit its successful operation.

Then came the purchase of the great Sealeless Rubber Company and its plants at New Haven. In this plant is manufactured all the hot water bottles and hospital supplies used by Rexall stores in our country, Canada and England.

To secure a better distribution of our products in metropolitan centers, the purchase of the Riker, Hegeman chain of retail drug stores in New England was negotiated. From this chain alone a tremendous volume of business is drawn for since that time each is a Rexall store.

The idea and the organization spread into our neighbor on the north and in due time a subsidiary, the United Drug Co. of Canada (limited, of course) was organized and shortly Rexall stores bloomed forth in the good Old Dominion.

In Merry Old England we have been meddling with some of the old and sacred institutions. The purchase of the Boots, Ltd., chain of apothecary shops gave us a wonderful opportunity for distribution in good old London and thereabouts. These quaint old shops have been standardized for modern merchandising methods and service, such as is expected in the twentieth century.

All this expansion and increased production required an immense amount of invested capital so the company had to re-finance correspondingly.

The Great War took its quota from the rank and file of the institution and its distributing stores. From its great executives were taken men well skilled in the efficient handling of commodities in large quantities. Their commissions were handled honorably and efficiently.

The manning of the great merchant marine was a job taken over by the organization and from the Rexall stores over the land

Governor Richardson Asked to Investigate Action of Board But States He Is Powerless. Board Members Serve Ten Years. Legislative Action May Be Asked by County Grand Jury. Assemblyman Jones Will Not Press Legislative Action.

Following the announcement made Wednesday that Fred E. Alford, former city manager of the City of Ontario, had been paroled from San Quentin penitentiary, indignation has reigned supreme and criticism of the prison parole board and state authorities has been most severe, and it is the general opinion here that it is the worst miscarriage of justice that has occurred in this section for many years.

Alford was convicted of robbing the City of Ontario of $30,000 through false purchase orders. It cost the City of Ontario a large sum to obtain the evidence against Alford and it cost the county $20,000 to convict him.

Powerless to act in the matter of a probe into the parole from San Quentin of Alford, Governor Friend W. Richardson can take no steps to interfere with the action of the parole board, he stated Thursday in Los Angeles.

The authority of the parole board is absolute and subject to no outside interference other than legislative action, the Governor said. The board is appointed to serve for 10 years.

Arouses Protest Storm Ontario continued to seethe with anger over the affair. Alford's parole has aroused the greatest storm of protest and indignation witnessed in years. Civic clubs and other bodies are uniting in passing resolutions condemning the action of the parole board. The citizens generally are bitter in their denunciation of the situation. Measures to thwart the early release of prisoners such as Alford is one of the principal objectives sought by the Peace Officers Association of California. Sheriff W. A. Shay said yesterday.

Favors Proper Sentence "We do not believe in being harsh or unjust to men in prison," the sheriff said, "but we do think that when a man has been sentenced to prison for a serious offense he should at least be kept there for a proper period, not only in reparation for his crime but to insure the safety of society."

According to Sheriff Shay the release of prisoners on parole constitutes the greatest source of danger to the public. A large percentage of men arrested in Southern California are charged with various crimes are paroled prisoners from the penitentiaries of this or other states.

"I do not know of a single murder in Southern California in recent years which has not been committed by a paroled man," he declared.

Probe Outcome Not Certain What the final outcome of any probe undertaken by the Legislature would be, it is impossible to assume. The parole board is practically absolute in its powers and once having granted parole to Alford it is a question whether even the board would have power to return him to prison without a violation of his parole. Could it be proved, however, that he has not conducted himself properly at any time since his release, it is probable the board could be forced to return Alford to the penitentiary, it was asserted by attorneys.

Jones Denies Story Assemblyman Isaac Jones yesterday denied that he was responsible for the statement to the effect that he would institute a legislative inquiry into the granting of Alford's parole. He declined to discuss the possibility of any legislative action, which might be taken regarding the matter. The first intimation of the release of Alford from the pen-

ORANGE HARVEST SOON UNDER WAY

Present indications are that March 1st will see the picking, packing and shipping of navel oranges decidedly active, for managers of all the various packing plants in this section are preparing for heavy operations.

As one manager said the other day: "If it will rain, however, we just as soon put off heavy shipments for a month, for we certainly need the rain."

Although Jupiter Pluvius made a feeble attempt at rain Sunday and Monday, Thursday morning saw the first real results, and indications are that before the week is up Southern California will have enjoyed a real old-fashioned rain storm.

Thus far navel orange shipments have been averaging around 8 to 10 cars daily from the O. K. district, and as soon as the market clears of inferior fruit, local fruit will begin to go forward.

According to men familiar with conditions throughout Southern California this section is particularly fortunate in the condition of its fruit, and growers are looking forward to excellent results during the coming six months.

CLAREMONT POST TO PRESENT PLAY

The Keith Powell Post, No. 78, American Legion, Claremont, is presenting its fifth annual benefit play on Friday and Saturday evenings of this week at Holmes Hall.

The play selected for presentation this year is the Harvard prize play, "You and I," written in three acts by Philip Barry, a member of the now famous "47 Workshop," and is to be given under the direction of Miss Jennie A. Cooper of the Pomona High School faculty. The play itself is one of the most entertaining comedies of recent years, having enjoyed a successful run of over a year at the Belmont Theatre in New York, and deals with a significant aspect of modern American life. The scenes are laid in New York State, and the dialogue of the characters, representing ordinary people just like ourselves—you and I—while both clever and amusing, nevertheless deals admirably with the problem often faced by young men and women today, that of choosing between marriage and a career.

Reserved seats have been on sale, beginning Tuesday of this week, at Bridges Hall box office in Claremont from 1 to 4 p. m. An excellent cast has been working steadily during the past few weeks, and it is anticipated that the production this year will add new laurels to the record of Keith Powell Post in this activity.

The cast is as follows: Maitland White, a business man who wanted to be an artist; Smith Russell; Nancy White, his wife;

Pearl Reynolds; Roderick White ("Ricky"), his son; Clarence Wheeler; Veronica Duane ("Ronny"), fiancée of Ricky;

Lorain Chrisman; Geoffrey Nichols, bachelor and writer; Kenneth King; G. T. Warren, hard-headed business man; Myron Powell; Etta, the maid; Alice Romig.

NEW BOOKS AT UPLAND LIBRARY

Seventeen new books—mostly special requests—were received from the County Free Library during the past week. Those having put in a special request will have the first chance at them, of course. Kent's "Voyaging Southward From the Strait of Magellan" must be returned April first, the others to remain until called in. Among them will be found the following:

Fiction
Arlen—Green Hat.
Mackenzie—Old Men of the Sea.
Marx—You.
Pertwee—Treasure Trail.
Non-Fiction
Brewster—Little Garden for Little Money.
Burt—Diary of a Dude-Wrangler.
Columbus—Journal of First Voyage to America.
Duncan—Chemistry of Commerce.

Eichler—Customs of Mankind.
Friel—River of Seven Stars.
Huntington—Character of Races.
James—Principles of Psychology (2 vols.)
Story—How to Dress Well.
Juvenile
Collins—Boys' Book of Engine Building.
Hillyer—Child's History of the World.

The library had another red-letter day Saturday, 307 being the total circulation for the day. The juvenile department having been closed for two days and nights might have had something to do with it, as that department and the lobby both have new floor coverings. Brown battleship linoleum has been put on the floor and has added to the attractiveness of the building as well as making it more quiet and certainly more easy for the feet.

During January there were 463 magazines in circulation, 18 pamphlets, 795 non-fiction, 729 juvenile and 2392 adult fiction, making a grand total of 4397. Of this 1205 was duly credited to the County Free Library and 3192 to the municipal library. But nine books were withdrawn and 100 accessioned, leaving on the shelves and in circulation 6986 books belonging to the city library and about 3000 to the county. Seventy new members registered and nine withdrew, leaving in good standing 2379 borrowers.

During the past week the 47 books newly bound in red, blue, wine, gray, tan, brown and green buckram have been making a brave display on the exhibit table and several volumes of bound magazines as well. The library is still popular on Sundays, as the attendance of 163 for January shows.

Why a World Court

WHAT we need among the various nations is an international court to function in disputes among nations as courts now operate to settle disputes among citizens of any country and thus substitute reason for brute force, in an effort to avoid future wars. It will not be a complete solution, of course. In spite of our laws and courts, individuals still commit crime and our jails and penitentiaries have occupants. We even have civil wars in an effort to settle great issues among individuals of a country.

But there is now an awakened conscience the world over. The futility of war as a remedy to settle disputes or to curb unwarranted national ambitions has become only too apparent following the world war.

Forty-seven nations have already entered the present world court and twenty-one of these unreservedly. Twenty-one nations have pledged themselves to submit disputes with other nations to this court and abide by the decisions.

Largely because of politics in the United States, and due still more largely to personally ambitious senators who compose the senate foreign relations committee, the United States has not seen fit to enter, regardless of the favorable attitude of the secretary of state as well as of our last three Presidents.

To seek a moral substitute for war is Professor Pittman's reason for a world court. Our next step is entrance into the World Court, says Professor Burgess. Those who heard these men at the Men's Union banquet were given a very lucid explanation of the functions of the court and why we should enter.

The alleged excuse of some of the irreconcilables in the senate is that joining the court would entangle us with the League of Nations. Secretary Hughes and many other statesmen say it would not; but even if it did, that should be no obstacle. Eventually this will become a dominant issue in our national politics and the party favoring participation will win.—Claremont Courier.

Substitute for Smudging

WITH the agitation against smudging with crude oil growing stronger and taking definite form in a movement to secure legislation against the use of crude oil in smudge pots, it is time for citrus interests to double and triple their efforts to find a substitute, says the Santa Ana Register.

True, a great deal has been done in experimentation, but the fact that smudging with crude oil has filled the bill so far as reducing temperature was concerned has caused less activity in the search for substitutes than there should have been. At least, it so appears to many of those who have suffered from smudging, especially in the Pomona Valley, Orange County communities having suffered almost nothing in comparison to some other communities in the Southern California citrus belt.

Reports from Sacramento indicate the very large likelihood that some measure will be put through the legislature looking to the elimination of the use of smudge pots burning crude oil. It is only fair to presume that the measure will fix a time for the law to go into effect far enough ahead to give citrus growers a chance to make provision to meet the situation that will develop. Possibly the law will be made effective two years hence or five years hence.

Citrus interests will then have to get busy finding a workable substitute. Possibly this substitute will cost more in the operation than does smudging with crude oil. Perhaps they will find a smudge that does not carry greasy particles into houses and stores. Perhaps they will resort to electric fan devices developed on the theory that keeping a movement of air in an orchard will raise the temperature.

Tax Returns Are Making Wrinkles

FROM now until the middle of March income tax returns will form the bone of contention in the great American home and business office. No one actually feels free to follow his own inclinations so far as pleasure is concerned until he has relieved his mind of the burden of compiling his yearly income and the deductible deductions.

Any single person who has a gross income of one thousand dollars or over must file a return while a married person or head of a family is obliged to report if the gross income is twenty-five hundred or over. Personal exemptions include one thousand dollars for a single person; twenty-five hundred for one married and living with husband or wife, or for the head of a family. And in addition, an exemption of four hundred dollars is allowed for every child under eighteen years of age, and for each dependent who is incapable of earning a living for himself or herself.

After the exemptions have been subtracted from the gross earnings the remaining taxable income is subject to a two per cent tax up to four thousand dollars and from that amount up to ten thousand it is subject to a six per cent levy. When the total tax is ascertained it should be reduced by twenty-five per cent if the amount of taxable income is less than five thousand or is entirely in the class of earned income.

Although March fifteenth is the last day for filing the income tax returns, it is a good plan to send them in as soon as possible and especially so if there is any question concerning any part of the return which is not fully understood. It is never policy to put anything off until the last day and especially anything as important as these reports.

While many art and other collections have a history all their own, the Von Bissing collection of Egyptian art, which constitutes one of the main contents of the new museum recently opened at The Hague, has enjoyed perhaps a peculiarly checkered career. This collection was gathered together while Herr von Bissing was working in the Cairo Museum and taking part in the British researches in Egypt. It served mainly as material for study at Munich and was nearly destroyed during the Bavarian revolution. The objects composing it, however, were hurriedly hidden in farms, with the assistance of a workman and later a Dutch friend of the professor's and the Dutch Government helped him to bring the collection to Holland. Now at last it has found a haven of safety, and it is entitled to remain there for long in peace!

For St. Valentine's Anniversary

As St. Valentine's Day is near at hand and Valentine ideas being the order of the day at social functions, the following may be of interest to those about to entertain:

A Valentine Luncheon

For the centerpiece of a Valentine luncheon use a basket of spring flowers with red and white predominating. Tie a bow of red and white striped ribbon to the handle, and in among the flowers place two wire hearts covered with red chenille.

Serve a fruit cocktail first, with little hearts cut from maraschino cherries sprinkled over the top. With the consommé julienne serve toast-fingers arranged in a circle on a white paper doily around a red cardboard heart. Celery hearts, radish roses and stuffed olives may be passed with this.

Valentine Chops

Little French chops with white paper frills, with a red paper heart pasted to each frill, served on heart-shaped pieces of boiled ham, make the piece de resistance. A melon-shaped mold of asparagus mousse is served with this, decorated with strips of green peppers and red peppers and a row of red pimiento hearts cut out with a small cookie-cutter. Asparagus tips may be piled at the ends of the platter. Serve with Hollandaise sauce. Little hot whole-wheat rolls and currant jelly round out this course.

Salad and Cheese

French endive with French dressing makes a very good salad, with a small square of Philadelphia cream cheese on each plate decorated with a pimiento heart, or little cherry cheese sandwiches may be served with this.

Cherry Sandwiches

Moisten a cream cheese with cream until it is soft enough to spread easily. Then add a few finely chopped candied cherries and blanched almonds. Spread very thin slices of fresh bread first with unsalted butter, then with the cheese mixture; roll and tie with red ribbon.

Heart Ice Cream

Have the ice cream molded into a large heart and pour crushed and sweetened strawberries over it. Serve with small heart-shaped cakes. The mints are white peppermints with tiny red candy hearts fastened to them with sugar syrup.

Helpful Hints

To Save Slipping

Tack a piece of an old tire or overshoe on each leg of the step-ladder. It will not slip on a wet or oiled floor.

Broom Not In Use

When not in use, the broom should be hung up in a rack with the bristles up, so the weight does not rest on the straws.

Care of New Pans

Rub the surface of the new pie or cake tins with lard and then heat the utensil in the oven. It will prevent rust.

To Prevent Fading

Don't use an iron which is too hot for it will fade the material while you are ironing. This is more often the cause of fading than is the washing.

Iron Will Not Rust

I have noticed that iron will not rust if rubbed with stove polish mixed with paraffin instead of water.

Aid in Ironing

Salt on a newspaper is splendid to smooth one's irons. Rub the iron over it once or twice and see how nicely it works.

Paint Radiators Same As Background

Don't make the mistake of painting your furnace registers, radiators or heating pipes in sharp contrast to the background of your room, for it breaks the general color scheme and tends to make a room look ugly. It is much better to do these fixtures in the same shade as the walls and they are not easily perceived.

New Exterior Finish

An interesting discovery has recently been made in the paint industry; a new material is now being manufactured called opex which withstands all weather conditions. It protects an exterior surface, insuring it against chemical reactions, exposure to weather and like dangers.

Treating Marred Furniture

Furniture that seriously needs renovating can be easily cared for by refinishing it with a floorlac, which gives a splendid stain and varnish finish in one operation. If the surface has been previously stained it is best to sandpaper it before applying a new coat.

When You Want Them You Invite Them In

WHEN you want your neighbor and his wife to come over to Thanksgiving dinner, what do you do about it? Get the meal ready without saying a word, and then sit down to wait for 'em to come?

No? Why not?

They know you have a turkey dinner ready. They know you're hospitable. They know you'll be glad to see them any time, holiday or not.

Then what is to prevent your expecting them?

Nothing in the world except that, when people are wanted, they expect to be invited.

Even in business matters, they want to be sure they're wanted—and that provision is made for their wants.

Business, you argue, is different from social routine.

In some respects, it is.

But—"people are people" in one as in the other. They're just as human.

They want to be sure of a practical welcome.

They want to know in advance that you've planned for them and are expecting them.

Your advertisement is that kind of an invitation.

Paying Prisoners for Work Found Success in California

One of the most interesting experiments in criminology for years is the action taken by the State Highway Commission of California in paying convicts a day rate for work on state roads. A state law was passed in 1923, and the result has been to greatly benefit the prisoners, and substantially reduce the cost of maintaining the state prisoners without increasing the cost of highway construction.

While the employment of prison labor in state highway commissions is not new in California, the granting of compensation which has been in force since August, 1924, is an authorization of the legislature of 1923. It is believed to be the first of its kind ever enacted in the United States.

The following article on the subject is by a writer in the Chicago Highway Magazine, and says:

"Since the new pay law went into effect, some 860 men have gone through the three camps, now in operation, and have made net earnings of approximately $34,000. Of this sum $5,000 has been allotted to dependents.

"This has been done without any extra cost to the State Highway Commission, as the cost of operating the camps is no greater now than prior to the passage of the pay-law, the money earned by the men representing economies effected in camp operation and management under the new plan.

"The law provides that the commission may pay the men a maximum of $2.50 per day. Studies showed that it was costing the commission $2.10 a day to keep the men at work under the former law, and this figure was set as the wage to be paid.

"Against this daily wage of $2.10 the law directs the commission to charge the cost of transportation, meals, clothing, medical and dental care, camp management, guarding, payment of rewards, and the cost of small tools. When this has been deducted, the prisoner is permitted to retain a maximum of seventy-five cents per day, provided he can save that much. A review of camp reports indicates that many of the prisoners are making the maximum permissible under the law. In recent weeks the average earning has been on the increase, and is now around fifty cents a day.

"Every man starts out obligated to the commission. Upon his arrival in camp, he is advanced an outfit of clothing, bedding, etc. This starts him off $30 to $40 in debt. If he is industrious, he gradually cuts down his indebtedness and begins to pile up a surplus which is his when he is discharged or paroled. Some of the men already have earnings of more than $200, which will be theirs when they are released. Under the old system, upon discharge, a man left the prison with a suit of clothing and $5.

"Many are taking advantage of the new pay law to have needed dental work done. Others are having their eyes tested and glasses fitted against the day when they will be free.

"The prison road camps are honor camps in every sense of the word. The man in prison must make a voluntary application, backed by a good conduct record, to get a chance to go to the camps. When he gets there, every two days he works out an additional day from his sentence. Good conduct and willing work in the camps have great weight with the Board of Prison Directors in granting paroles.

"A reward of $200 is allowed by law for the capture of men escaping from the road camps, and is prorated against the earnings of the men in the camp at the time of escape. Few leave, however, although escape is not impossible under the conditions prevailing. Most of those who try to get away are soon caught and taken back to prison, with all their earnings and credits lost. Once in a while a man goes back voluntarily, but not often.

"Under the law, all forfeitures go into the Prisoners' Fund for educational and recreational work in the road camps.

"The turnover in the camps averages about 8 per cent. This is one of the important factors in the success of the movement. A free-labor camp in the remote mountain sections in which the prisoners work probably would have a labor turnover of 40 to 50 per cent. Experience has shown that it is difficult to get free labor to remain for any length of time on these jobs.

"The law provides that all skilled labor must be performed by free men, and strict adherence to the law is the rule of the Highway Commission. Bridge builders, steam shovel operators, truck drivers and the like are free men in the prison road camps.

"There can be no question of the value of the prison road camp from the standpoint of the prisoner. The man earns his way, builds up his self-respect, and is discharged physically fit to face the world.

"While it can not yet be claimed that the plan is reducing the cost of state highway work in California, it is bringing about a saving to the state in the cost of maintaining the state prisoners.

"When man leaves for the road camp, the prison is immediately relieved of the expense of his confinement. Authority over the man, as regards discipline, remains with the prison, but the cost of his transportation to the camp, the salaries of the guards furnished by the prison, as well as all other expenses of the camps, are borne by the Highway Commission."

SUPERVISORS DENY PETITION TO CHANGE SCHOOL BOUNDARIES

Petition of a number of Etiwanda residents requesting the change of the boundaries of the Etiwanda and Fontana school districts was denied yesterday by the Board of Supervisors at the recommendation of Ida M. Collins, county superintendent of schools.

The Etiwanda residents based the request on the fact that the Fontana school is by four miles closer than the Etiwanda school. In reply, however, Miss Collins stated that the Fontana school now has more students than can be properly handled and is financially operating at a loss, part of its expenses being paid out of the county emergency fund. She urged the reconsidering of the issue later.

NINE O'CLOCK ORDER TO STAY

Congressman Swing is very present of the opinion that the present nine o'clock closing order for the Mexican border has justified itself and will be continued despite the protest of certain interests.

One year ago this month our government put into effect the present hours for closing the line. This was the culmination of a vigorous and victorious fight waged by the women's clubs, churches, and law enforcement officers, with the aid of many business men, to protect American communities from the baneful and injurious consequences of the vice conditions which flourished along the Mexican side of the line.

Recently the Calexico Chamber of Commerce started the whole discussion anew by petitioning the government to restore the old hours and to reopen the line until midnight on the ground that the present restrictions were hurting business. The Mexican resort owners also have been exceedingly active, exerting every possible influence to get the Washington authorities to withdraw the present order since it has been conservatively estimated that their profits at Tia Juana and Mexicali have been reduced since the order went into effect fully $250,000 per month. Petitions have been circulated and signed in both these border towns and appeals have been made to Washington through men who were supposed to have "influence."

Opposed to this effort has been arraigned the same forces of decency that made the fight and won the closing order a year ago. Petitions, resolutions, letters and telegrams from public officials, women's clubs, churches, business and professional men have poured in on the Treasury Department protesting against any backward step. In the meantime the Government has been quietly making an investigation of its own. Out of this investigation and out of the mass of evidence produced, pro and con, these facts stand out clear and indisputable:

Public officials in both San Diego and Imperial Counties are unanimous in favor of the present order, saying that it has materially reduced the number of crimes committed, that there has been less drunkenness and fewer accidents on the public highways. Welfare workers report improved moral and hygienic conditions along the border, especially with reference to juveniles. The bankers of Imperial Valley, outside of Calexico, are unanimously of the opinion that the present order has kept many thousands of American dollars at home which would otherwise have been squandered in dissipation and vice across the line.

One of the principal arguments advanced in asking to have the line reopened was that the present order had served its purpose and had forced an improvement in conditions across the line, notably in the suppression of gambling. This contention, it now seems, was made too soon as recent press dispatches carry the news that gambling has reopened in Tia Juana. The fact that it is at present restricted to so-called "clubs" is of little consequence, inasmuch as membership in these clubs is free and easy, and quickly obtained by any one who has a dollar to spend.

After a review of the numerous letters, petitions and resolutions which had been sent him and which he in turn presented to the Treasury Department, Congressman Swing declared that while there had been occasional instances of inconvenience caused to legitimate business, yet the nine o'clock closing order had in general worked so well that it was impossible to believe that the Government would return to the old order of affairs. He predicted that the Treasury Department would shortly announce its determination to continue the order in effect.

CHICAGO VISITORS ARRIVE—

Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Eckstein, Jr., arrived on Tuesday from Chicago to spend the balance of the winter with Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Eckstein, Sr., at their North Euclid Avenue home. They were accompanied by a friend, Mrs. Halda Hirsch of New York City, who will also spend some time here.

Mr. and Mrs. Eckstein are both enthusiastic golf players and, having visited other winters in Upland, are looking forward to again playing on the Red Hill Country Club links.

EDITH CAVELL CHAPTER MEETS IN ONTARIO—

Mrs. John E. Walker was hostess yesterday afternoon to members of the Edith Cavell Chapter, D.B.E., at her home on North Euclid Avenue, Ontario, when the regular monthly session was held.

Mrs. Robert G. Manley was appointed to represent the chapter on the Woman's Auxiliary to the San Antonio Hospital Community and a letter was read by Mrs. Ira Higgenbotham of intense interest to chapter members, as it was the last one penned by Edith Cavell just before her execution in Belgium at the beginning of the World War. Miss Cavell wrote words of encouragement to a drug addict, and gave helpful advice in the midst of her own danger. The chapter is proud of having the letter to keep with other records of Miss Cavell, after whom the chapter was named. It was in a state of organization about the time the world was horrified at the shooting of the brave woman, and the name was naturally suggested as being an appropriate one for the new chapter.

Two charming piano selections were played by Miss Elinor Corn of Ontario during the social hour, when the hostess also served refreshments.

Owing to the wet weather only a few members were present and included Mrs. J. N. Huehna, Mrs. Annie Pheysey, Mrs. L. C. Baxter, Mrs. R. Manley, Mrs. Torrens Pratt, Mrs. Ira Higgenbotham, Mrs. Horace Little, Mrs. Emily Bates, Mrs. A. M. Plasterer, and the hostess, who is also the regent of the Chapter.

MRS. J. F. SAWYER ENTERTAINS—

Mrs. Jedd F. Sawyer was hostess on Tuesday evening at her pretty Euclid Avenue home to members of her evening bridge club, and a most enjoyable time was spent at the auction tables. Bouquets of violets were used in decorations and at the conclusion of the game, the hostess served delicious refreshments.

Dr. Mary Williamson was the guest of the evening, members present being Mrs. John Craig, Mrs. R. B. Bordwell, Mrs. Frank K. Nichols, Mrs. Ernest C. Mehl, Mrs. Owen E. Atwood, Mrs. E. H. Fuller, Mrs. J. L. Grahame, Mrs. Robert H. Henderson, Mrs. Glenn M. Atwood, Mrs. Sam Rowe, Mrs. Harold C. Moore, Mrs. P. H. McQuillen, Mrs. H. C. Brown, Mrs. Paul Adams.

DANCE AT RED HILL COUNTRY CLUB—

Miss Alta McCrae was a charming hostess yesterday evening when she entertained a number of Upland and Ontario society folk at the Red Hill Country Club with a dancing party.

Thirty-five couples were invited, and during the course of the evening three extremely pretty favor balls were given, the first a balloon, the second a patriotic, and the third a Valentine favor.

Following several hours of dancing the guests adjourned to Miss McCrae's home in Ontario, where a delicious supper was served.

SAD DEATH OF PODRASNIK GRANDCHILD

Madeline E. Wass, seven-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wass, passed away Wednesday at her parents' home in Taft.

The little body has been brought to Ontario for burial. Private services were held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon from Draper's Ontario chapel. Interment was made at Bellevue.

Before her marriage Mrs. Wass was Marie Podrasnik of San Antonio Heights. Mr. Wass was a former resident of Ontario.

ELECTRIC HOUSE HEATING

Electric house heating will soon become general and it is more a question of how soon there will be sufficient electric power generated to heat the homes of the land than absence of demand.

Leading the world, this nation is approaching the time when it will no longer be heated by the time-consuming coal-burning furnaces or old-fashioned wood-burners generally used.

Wrist S. Scott, manager of the industrial heating department of the Westinghouse Company, reports great progress in solving the problems of heating houses by electricity in a practical manner.

"When that time comes, the days of struggling with the furnace will be over, and the household will not need to give his heating system a single thought," says Mr. Scott, referring to latest inventions.

A reliable authority says there is already 1,250,000 kilowatts of electrical heating apparatus employed by American industries, from bakeries to glue factories and enamelling automobile bodies.

THAT MYSTERIOUS COWBOY COMING

Prosperity is within yourself. If you don't think so just take a quiet squint at the Mysterious Cowboy Cartoonist. In him you will see a personality that breathes success, in him you can see a man who has pointed the way to hundreds. There is nothing mysterious in his methods, nothing but just living the "Golden Rule." Nothing that you can not do, and will not do if it is pointed out to you.

The use of a bit of crayon and a blank sheet of paper is novel, but illustrates his points as nothing else has ever been found to do. His illustrations are anything but dry, in fact you are more than likely to laugh until the tears come to wet your eyes. But when you leave the theatre you will have had a lesson that you can think over for a long time, a lesson that will no doubt do you and every one else a lot of good.

Upland as a city is one of the most ideally situated, has a set of business men that are hard to beat, and for the residents, well, you know as I do that they just can't be beat. The Mysterious Cowboy Cartoonist wants to help you, and in so doing will give you the funniest 30 minutes you ever lived through.

He will be here just for one night, in connection with that stupendous production, "North of 36" and Boom E Rang Dollars, February 26th. Make a red ring around the date on your calendar.

SUNSHINE IN DAKOTAS

The clouds east over the material prosperity of the Dakotas by the Non-Partisan League have rolled away and with about the biggest per capita soil products of any section of our country conditions are improving.

With diversified farming taking the place of wheat as the principal crop, large areas of fertile lands are made available for intensive cultivation and dairying.

In the older prairie states the best farming lands now command prices of $200 and even $500 per acre and rental figures often run to an amount that would make a substantial down payment or even a total payment for lands just as fertile in the Dakotas or in many other sections of the middle west, the west and the south. Renters are becoming land owners and an increasing stream of home seekers and farm buyers are seeking out these opportunities.

Formerly they used to extol the breadwinner of the family, but it takes a cake winner to satisfy people now.

ECONOMY PLAN IS SUPPORTED HERE

Friends of Governor Richardson in San Bernardino are manifesting keen interest in a statement issued yesterday in Los Angeles by the Governor, appealing to the taxpayers of the state to aid in his fight on the "pork barrel" crew in the State Legislature.

In a public statement issued from his office in Los Angeles, Gov. Richardson particularly attacked the proposal, incorporated in bills now pending before the Legislature, to increase the salaries of Superior Court judges in 31 counties and also those of the State Supreme Court and Appellate court justices.

Should these bills become law, Gov. Richardson said, the biennial tax will be increased by $658,000 of which $456,000 must be borne by the state. The bills, he stated, are in addition to the $22,000,000 of special appropriation and "pork barrel" bills also pending before the Legislature.

Opposes Salary Boost

Under the proposed salary increases for jurists, the pay of the Supreme Court justices would be boosted from $8000 to $15,000 a year, that of the Appellate Court justices from $7000 to $12,000 a year and that of the 28 Superior Court judges in Los Angeles County, eight in Alameda County and 16 in San Francisco County from $7000 to $9,000 a year. "Judging from past Legislatures, all of these bills may be adopted and the unpleasant duty of maintaining economy will then rest with the Governor. The taxpayer should take an interest in these matters and labor with their members of the Legislature to maintain economy."

"The special interests are always busy on salary increases and pork barrel appropriations while the people who pay the bills are rarely heard from in protest. I ask for the help of the taxpayers. Some few slight increases may be necessary but the increases asked for are beyond reason."

To Inspect Roads

Gov. Richardson and a party of State Highway Commission officials will inspect the three transcontinental routes entering California from the east early next week, the tour probably beginning Sunday. In the party will be Commissioner Nelson T. Edwards, Chief Engineer; R. M. Morton, and District Engineer E. Q. Sullivan, of San Bernardino.

The highways over which the party will travel are: The Borderland Highway, running east to Yuma along the border.

The Sun-kissed Trail, shortest of the trio, extending via Mecca and Blythe to Phoenix.

The National Old Trails Highway, from San Bernardino to Needles.

The latter route was taken over by the state from the county about a year ago and is the one in which San Bernardino is most vitally interested; the whole of this highway lies in the county.

The purpose underlying the expedition could not be determined yesterday, the Governor himself apparently being the only member of the party in possession of the information. Commissioner Edwards said yesterday:

"It is only probable that the Governor has instigated this inspection trip as a means of discovering which of the routes the state should concentrate its improvement efforts on this year. I do not know, but it is my impression that the trip is merely being made in order to acquaint the Governor with the work of the Highway Commission in the southern district."

The three cross-country highways are maintained by the state at a cost of approximately $500 per mile. The total expenditure for work on these roads last year was about $250,000. At present, according to Commissioner Edwards, lack of funds is prohibiting proposed improvement work on any of the thoroughfares.

TOO MUCH

"Why did you break off your engagement?" "Oh, my dear, Jack became simply impossible. He criticized the way I dressed and objected to my friends, and always wanted me at his beck and call. Then on top of all that he suddenly went off and married another girl, so I made up my mind to have nothing more to do with him."—Epworth Herald.

COLLEGE DRIVE IS GETTING RESULTS

The first day of the campaign for Pomona College came to a close last night and in spite of the fact that the rain interfered with the getting about of the workers a total of $23,221 was rolled up by workers in the west end of the county.

All team captains and their crews opened the campaign on Wednesday night at a dinner served in their honor at Chaffey cafeteria. Benton Ballou, chairman of the west end campaign, presided over the meeting.

Among the speakers of the evening was James A. Blaisdell, president of Pomona College. Mr. Blaisdell told of the opportunities offered by Pomona College and pointed out how the opportunities will be expanded many fold when the $3,000,000 endowment fund is subscribed. He urged all the workers to impress on the public the vital importance of expanding the college at Claremont.

Speaks on Relations

Rev. Toomay spoke of the long and cordial connection between Pomona College and the west end. More than 250 students from this district have been enrolled in Pomona College, he pointed out, which gives to Ontario and Upland a great share of the task of working for the constant growth of the institution.

Nature and methods of the endowment fund campaign was explained by J. H. Andrews, noted financial expert who was formerly in charge of national campaigns for the American Red Cross.

Singing was led by J. Lyndward Grahame of the Upland Rotary Club, and music for the evening was furnished by the Chaffey Orchestra.

Pomona College campaign in California will be carried on in 12 districts. Half a million dollars has been pledged by Claremont, San Dimas and La Verne. Immediately after completion of the local campaigns, the other 11 districts of California will be taken up.

Parole of Fred E. Alford, former

Ontario city service manager, convicted of defrauding the city out of more than $30,000, from San Quentin penitentiary, confirmation of which was received here this week, was decreed in a resolution unanimously adopted Wednesday afternoon by the Lions Club in luncheon session at Hotel Casa Blanca. The club resolution bespoke the hearty disapproval of its members in regard to the parole of Alford in no uncertain terms. Alford was sentenced on June 1, 1923, to serve a term of from 2 to 20 years in prison, and it has just been learned that he was paroled after serving only 18 months.

Jesse Winton was program chairman of the day and the principal speaker was Dr. A. M. Pond, Los Angeles physician, whose subject was "Life and Evolution." The talk dealt with living cells and the connection between them and vegetable and animal matter.

A large portion of the meeting was devoted to practicing songs which the club, planning to attend 100 per cent strong, expects to sing at the Lions convention at San Diego in May.

An invitation was received from the San Bernardino Lions Club to be their guests on Lions Day, Feb. 23, at the National Orange Show, and practically all members expressed their intentions of being present.

Dr. I. L. Kaufman of Upland

was a luncheon visitor on this occasion.

Endorse Letter Campaign

Directors of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce were on record today as heartily endorsing a campaign of letter writing to persons residing in the middle west and east in an effort to refute libelous statements and unjust criticism of Southern California. A resolution endorsing the plan was adopted on motion of Benton Ballou and seconded by Clayton K. Close, and the appointment of a special committee to further the work was authorized. President H. M. Shattuck has not yet announced the personnel of this committee.

The directors also gave hearty endorsement to the annual fair of the Chaffey Junior Farm Center, which is to be staged at the Chaffey High School campus in May, and authorized Secretary B. W. Spencer to expend $50 on publicity for the coming event.

Appointment of an Ontario

representative on the advisory council of the California Development Association, at their request, was authorized and a plan for a same refuge in Riverside County was endorsed.

Decry Misrepresentation

Recent action of some growers in misinterpreting a move recently launched by the chamber to eliminate soot in orchard heating, was decry at this meeting of the directors, it being pointed out that there had never been a thought of any attempt to do away with orchard heating. The decision of the chamber to leave the eradication of the smudge evil to the growers themselves was endorsed.

Members of the chamber entertained at their forum luncheon meeting Tuesday at the Hotpoint Club by S. H. Linsley of Los Angeles, known as the cowboy cartoonist, who caricatured a number of prominent men present, and by the Cotton Blossom Singers, a woman's quartet from the Piney Woods School for negroes at Braxton, Miss.

Endorse Letter Campaign

Directors of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce were on record today as heartily endorsing a campaign of letter writing to persons residing in the middle west and east in an effort to refute libelous statements and unjust criticism of Southern California. A resolution endorsing the plan was adopted on motion of Benton Ballou and seconded by Clayton K. Close, and the appointment of a special committee to further the work was authorized. President H. M. Shattuck has not yet announced the personnel of this committee.

The directors also gave hearty endorsement to the annual fair of the Chaffey Junior Farm Center, which is to be staged at the Chaffey High School campus in May, and authorized Secretary B. W. Spencer to expend $50 on publicity for the coming event.

Appointment of an Ontario

representative on the advisory council of the California Development Association, at their request, was authorized and a plan for a same refuge in Riverside County was endorsed.

Decry Misrepresentation

Recent action of some growers in misinterpreting a move recently launched by the chamber to eliminate soot in orchard heating, was decry at this meeting of the directors, it being pointed out that there had never been a thought of any attempt to do away with orchard heating. The decision of the chamber to leave the eradication of the smudge evil to the growers themselves was endorsed.

Members of the chamber entertained at their forum luncheon meeting Tuesday at the Hotpoint Club by S. H. Linsley of Los Angeles, known as the cowboy cartoonist, who caricatured a number of prominent men present, and by the Cotton Blossom Singers, a woman's quartet from the Piney Woods School for negroes at Braxton, Miss.

The singers were accompanied by Laurence C. Jones, colored founder of the school, who spoke briefly on the institution.

Birthday Party

Complimenting her small daughter, Alta, on the occasion of the eleventh anniversary of her birthday, Mrs. Joseph A. Downey entertained a dozen little misses on Tuesday afternoon at their home, 511 Plaza Serena.

Merry games and unique contests occupied the major portion of the afternoon. Prizes were awarded the Misses Elizabeth King, Bobbie Fowler and Marjorie Taylor, and there were favors for each guest.

Mrs. Downey was assisted in entertaining by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Gerald Davidson of Monrovia. Miss Alta was the recipient of a number of charming gifts. Delicious refreshments, featuring a handsome birthday cake, were served toward the afternoon's close.

Those who gathered to help

Miss Alta celebrate the happy occasion included the Misses Marjorie Taylor, Ruth Mary Frankish, Helen Louise Andrews, Bobbie Fowler, Bernice Stroh, Mary Stroh, Elizabeth King, Rae Jean Gillilan, Marion Gillilan, Thomasine Blevins and Louella Allen. A charming Valentine motif predominated in decorations and appointments.

Chairmen are Named

Appointment of the chairmen of the standing committees which will serve the organization during the ensuing six months featured Tuesday night's monthly dinner meeting of the Ontario Business

Parole of Fred E. Alford, former

Ontario city service manager, convicted of defrauding the city out of more than $30,000, from San Quentin penitentiary, confirmation of which was received here this week, was decreed in a resolution unanimously adopted Wednesday afternoon by the Lions Club in luncheon session at Hotel Casa Blanca. The club resolution bespoke the hearty disapproval of its members in regard to the parole of Alford in no uncertain terms. Alford was sentenced on June 1, 1923, to serve a term of from 2 to 20 years in prison, and it has just been learned that he was paroled after serving only 18 months.

Jesse Winton was program chairman of the day and the principal speaker was Dr. A. M. Pond, Los Angeles physician, whose subject was "Life and Evolution." The talk dealt with living cells and the connection between them and vegetable and animal matter.

A large portion of the meeting was devoted to practicing songs which the club, planning to attend 100 per cent strong, expects to sing at the Lions convention at San Diego in May.

An invitation was received from the San Bernardino Lions Club to be their guests on Lions Day, Feb. 23, at the National Orange Show, and practically all members expressed their intentions of being present.

Dr. I. L. Kaufman of Upland

was a luncheon visitor on this occasion.

Women's Association at the First

Christian Church. Named by Mrs. W. Clark Roloff, association president, were Mrs. Edna Andres, chairman teachers' group committee; Miss Agnes Bradley, chairman music committee; Miss Alice Danks, chairman public utilities group committee; Mrs. Ida Flum, chairman office group committee, and Miss Juanita Richardson, chairman saleswomen and business owners group committee. The committee headed by Mrs. Andres, will be in charge of the March meeting.

Members of the Association were lined up solidly today behind a "Back East" letter writing campaign, in which the true facts regarding Southern California will be sent to friends in the middle west and east, following explanation and endorsement of the plan by Mrs. Roloff. The president urged all of the 100 or more members to do their bit in boosting the Southland by participating in the letter-writing campaign.

Miss Helen Sinclair of the Los Angeles Orthopaedic Hospital told of the work among crippled children at that institution. New members voted into the association at this meeting were Mrs. Ruth Lewis Ingalls and Mrs. Lillian A. Larsen. Mrs. Dorothy Vice, recently returned from a trip to England, spoke interestingly of her visit.

Adding to the pleasure of the evening were musical numbers by Miss Helen Sandford, L. J. Klimes and D. C. Stults, and the Misses Rae-Jean and Marion Gillilan were seen in some clever fancy dances. Mrs. Bertha Gholson was chairman of the evening's program.

One of the feature exhibits at the National Orange Show at San Bernardino will be the Electric Fruit Counter in operation.

This machine is a comparatively new apparatus built by the Scheu Orchard Heater Company and supplied to members of the association by the Fruit Growers Supply Company.

Growers will be given a chance to examine the machine and to try their skill in estimating the number of oranges passing through the counter. The manufacturers of the Electric Fruit Counter promise each grower a free estimate and the person handing in the correct number will be awarded a prize of fifty Exchange Type Orchard Heaters equipped with the new Scheu Cone Louvre Stack. If the correct number is not handed in the prize will go to the person who comes nearest to the correct quantity of fruit in the bins.

Growers and packing house men will be much interested in examining the Electric Fruit Counter at the show as this device promises to considerably change existing packing house methods. It tallies every orange by size, keeping the count of each grade separately and provides an equitable method of paying the grower for his fruit. It means that the man who produces the best fruit will be paid on that basis and the one who gives less care to his grove, and consequently has a large run of less desirable sizes, will be paid exactly what his fruit commands. This means payment will be based on market value instead of average price per pound.

The operation of the Electric

Fruit Counter is entirely automatic, eliminating many delays that accompany present methods. Greater efficiency in packing house methods is brought about with the new device.

The machine is placed on the grader and records by electrical contact on a computing machine the exact number of oranges of each size that pass through the grading machine. The total recorded is for the entire crop. Operation is electrical with electrical control also. The current is furnished by an electric generator as batteries are unreliable. The generator will furnish a constant flow of power and minimize the possibility of error.

As the oranges pass along the conveyor belt through the counter each one operates a star-shaped wheel. As this wheel turns it brings the two electric contact points together, which is recorded in the register. These contact points are ordinary Ford contacts, which means inexpensive replacements.

"You say you come from Detroit," said the doctor to his fellow passenger; "that's where they make automobiles, isn't it?"

fornia will be organized, and campaigns launched.

To Aid Students

The chief goal of the campaign is money pledged for payment during the next five years, and designated for use as general endowment.

In addition to the amount sought for endowment the college is making a special plea for endowment for scholarship aid to help self-supporting students, for endowment to maintain a first class department of religious education and to supply a whole field of education which the state universities cannot touch, and finally for buildings and equipment, men's residence halls, equipment for physics department, and auditoriums, which are especially needed.

The success of the present campaign will make possible the gradual opening of the doors of Pomona College to additional numbers of students. At present three students are refused admission for every one accepted, and for nine years the college has been limited to an undergraduate body of 750.

were recruited the men who manned and officered those ships.

After the war there came that unprecedented commercial expansion when the country was trying to catch step with the demand by greater production.

Then it was necessary to build the great plant at St. Louis. This mammoth plant was finished and equipped when the slump occurred in national business.

Then all business concerns, great and small, felt the pinch of restricted credits, loss of business confidence and such symptoms as attend a similar catastrophe. It was at this time that occurred a great demonstration of what can be done by whole-hearted co-operation. Our president, Louis K. Liggett, a man of such calibre that his time and attention and counsel was in demand by many great financial and industrial institutions on the Atlantic Coast, was a heavy investor in United Drug Co. securities.

In the great bear market a few years back all industries were hammered down and down. The great shrinkage in inventories from peak prices wiped out millions of invested dollars, great industrial corporations passed dividend and individual buying power dwindled to bare necessities.

Louis K. Liggett was caught in the storm and in the giant bear raid, planned to grab control of the United Drug Company. Its stock was hammered down to less than one-half par. At that time Mr. Liggett announced in a simple and straightforward letter to his ten thousand or so partners in the Rexall stores of the land that his personal affairs were so involved that he felt that he should resign from the presidency of the company and make an assignment to protect his creditors. It was at this time that the Rexall slogan "One for all and all for one" was taken down from over the door, the cobwebs and dust brushed therefrom and carefully reread to see it really meant anything.

Almost simultaneously over the land executive committees of state Rexall clubs were called together. Telegrams from state clubs and individual Rexall druggists from everywhere bombarded the president of the associated Rexall clubs. The gist of their remarks and demands were this: If our slogan means anything at all, why not use it now.

Quickly there was devised the Rexall Loyalty Fund, through which Rexall druggists over the old U.S. subscribed in cash as they were able and paid in their money to a committee appointed to take over Mr. Liggett's affairs and handle them. Thus was saved the personal fortune and credit of the man who conceived the big idea and who had done more for Rexall than any other man or group of men in the organization.

Since that time our money has been returned to us with interest that will long be treasured in the lesson in faith and co-operation and all of us, including our very human president has received a heart's men.

ONTARIO

Apparently imbued with the idea that the Ontario legislature has it within its power to reorganize the federal, state, county and city government throughout the United States, Thomas H. Gordner of 430 Cypress avenue, Watts, has just written to Assemblyman Isaac Jones setting forth some highly novel, not to say grotesque ideas. The communication was addressed in red ink and was received today by Assemblyman Jones, after having been forwarded here from Sacramento. It follows, in part:

"The States. The United States should be divided into 10 states by using parallel 38 and longitude 85, 95, 105, and 115 for state boundary lines. Texas is 213 times the size of Rhode Island and is too small. Then the states should be numbered.

"The Counties. Any county that has less than 1000 square miles of area should be forced by law to annex to an adjoining county. Fewer places with lower taxes, rid us of not needed laws and help in several other ways.

"Cities and Towns. Two cities, two towns or one of each that join are in the same state, should be forced by law to consolidate in all cases where their combined area is less than 400 square miles. Fewer places increases the number of persons to watch the actions of the officials, many of which are unfair.

"If the sale of bonds and purchase of site mentioned in the enclosed clipping taken from today's Los Angeles Record is legal the California Legislature should see to it that such dealing as that is made illegal. As I understand the situation, the voters voted for a $2,500,000 bond issue for to raise money to be used for the purchase of a city hall site in Los Angeles and that the site being purchased is to cost $3,750,000. It seems to me that either a site can be bought for $2,500,000 or less should be purchased, or that the proposal to purchase one at a higher price should be popular voted."

The clipping referred to tells of the purchase by the Los Angeles City Council of a city hall site at a cost $1,200,000 in excess of the $2,500,000 bonds voted for the purpose.

Paper Shortage Likely

That the country is facing the possibility of a very serious paper shortage, was the keynote of a craft talk yesterday by Roy D. Newton, well known Ontario printer, on the manufacture of paper from wood pulp, before the Rotary Club in luncheon session at Hotel Casa Blanca.

The speaker pointed out that one day's issue of the Chicago Tribune, alone, depleted eight acres of forest and that the United States Government alone, consumes 40,000,000 lbs. of paper annually. Not only are the forests of the United States being depleted by the great consumption of paper by the Canadian forests as well, according to Mr. Newton.

The speaker also touched upon the inferior lasting qualities of wood-pulp paper and declared that many librarians were already finding that books printed on this paper which were placed on their shelves only a few years ago were disintegrating, the particular kind known as sulphate paper being especially inferior as to lasting quality. Linen rag paper, the speaker pointed out, had been found to be the only kind which could be depended on for lasting qualities. Much other interesting data was presented.

In connection with the observance of Lincoln's Birthday, Arthur Wahl gave his speech before the Rotarians, which he presented at the Lincoln Oratorical Contest of Chaffey Junior College this morning, in which he tied for first place. His subject was "Our Purpose Today."

ONLY ONE DANGER

"That we are entering a new era of prosperity seems to be the consensus of opinion all over our country."

Confidence in the sanity and solidity of our national administrations is the foundation for this belief.

The great improvement in the status of agriculture is having a marked influence on all industry.

Over-optimism, however, which often breeds speculation and inflation, should be carefully guarded against.

Wonder if the schools ever will teach spelling?

NEW EQUIPMENT FOR BARTLETT'S

The camp in Barrett's Canyon maintained for the benefit of the various groups of girls in the Chaffey Girls' Work Organization has recently been provided with two new camp chairs, four new mattresses, and twelve canvas covers for all the mattresses, through the kindness of the Chaffey District Woman's Board.

Miss Janet Sane, general secretary, announced today that the cabin was now in 11 condition, doors and windows have been fixed, new locks put on, and the entire cabin is a scene of comfort and convenience. It is taken by some one group of girls' organizations for every week-end from now until after the spring vacation in April, and many jolly hiking parties have been planned.

These week-end hikes are taken under the direction of the girls and the leaders and the girls enjoy putting into practical use their knowledge of camping life, planning meals, cooking, and sometimes employing First Aid methods in simple accidents, while all the time they are having a jolly holiday, and come back filled with pep and happy memories of good times.

MRS. FULLER IN CHARGE OF MEET

The luncheon and meeting of the Inter-County Legion Auxiliary of San Bernardino and Riverside Counties, held in Ontario Tuesday with the Ontario Auxiliary acting as hostesses, at the Casa Blanca Hotel, was a very successful and interesting affair.

Sixteen members of the Upland branch were present, including Mrs. Everett H. Fuller, president of the Inter-Post Council, who presided over the meeting.

Mrs. Lillian Samuels of Oakland, state president of the American Legion Auxiliary, was introduced by Mrs. Fuller and enthusiastically greeted by the 80 members present. She gave an excellent outline of the work necessary to raise five million endowment fund which will be needed by the organization shortly, for the benefit of the 36,000 children of disabled veterans who will need assistance in less than five years, and California will be assigned her quota of the sum to be raised.

Other speakers of the day were Mrs. Martha Decker, of Los Angeles, past state president; Mrs. Carroll Marks, of Los Angeles, who spoke on membership; Mrs. Ethel Hearst, chairman of the hospital and welfare committees for Southern California; Mrs. Frank Martens, of Ontario, 11th district committeewoman; Mrs. M. J. Sweetland, of San Bernardino.

A short musical program in charge of Mrs. W. I. Walkinshaw, president of the Ontario Auxiliary, was presented, and included two lovely songs by Miss Margaret Paxson; a piano solo by Miss Winifred West; a violin solo by Hobart Alter, and some particularly pretty dances by little Miss Blevins of Ontario.

Those representing the Upland Auxiliary were Mrs. Fuller, Mrs. Harleigh C. Brown, president; Mrs. Ellery Wright, Mrs. Maude Brogan, Mrs. G. W. Cassell, Mrs. Loring N. Kirk, Mrs. Elizabeth Moore, Mrs. John Sanford, Mrs. T. W. Nisbet, Mrs. I. J. Linkey, Mrs. F. W. EXTENDING USE OF COAL

One of the greatest steps forward in development, both in steam and electric power, is the theory of burning coal in pulverized form. It has become an established fact. Hundreds of factories and power development plants, including some of the largest generating plants in the United States, have adopted this system, with great reduction in waste of coal.

Engineers are enthusiastic over the results obtained and it is freely predicted that in five years the use of pulverized coal will be considered the standard system for using that kind of fuel.

ASKS $100,000 DAMAGES IN ALIENATION SUIT

Seeking balm for the alleged alienation of affections of his wife, Maria, Jack Bourgeois, Declez quarry operator, yesterday filed suit for $100,000 damages in the Superior Court against Frank Vezu, Jr., Clarence and Emily Dixon, all of Declez.

The balm suit follows action for divorce brought against Bourgeois by his wife Jan. 17. On Jan. 26 she was awarded $50 per month temporary alimony pending hearing of the divorce suit, set for April.

In his complaint Bourgeois alleges that the defendants came between him and his wife by malicious and purposeful action, and conspired to take his wife away from him. He declares the conspiracy had its start in January of 1923 and culminated Jan. 10 of this year when Mrs. Bourgeois finally left their home and instituted divorce proceedings. Prior to the interference of the defendants the couple lived happily as man and wife, the complaint states.

The defendants, Mrs. Dixon and Vezu are sister and brother and joint heirs to the estate of the late Frank Vezu, prominent vineyardist of Vine-land and Declez, who died last year leaving an estate reputed to have been valued at between $300,000 and $500,000. In her suit for divorce, Mrs. Bourgeois asserted the couple were married in Louisiana Nov. 10, 1910. She requested the custody of two minor children, Maurice, aged 13, and Arthur, aged 11. She asked for $75 per month alimony and all community property, which she listed as a lot in Los Angeles worth $3000, land in San Bernardino County valued at $3000, building and loan stock valued at $500, cash in the bank of $243, household furniture valued at $300 and a house at Declez valued at $500.
